PLAINTIFFS' RESPONSE TO DEFENDANT ROBERTS'
RULE 12(b)(1) AND 12(b)(6) MOTION TO DISMISS
PLAINTIFFS' AMENDED COMPLAINT

Plaintiff Laura Pressley, Ph.D. (pro se), along with plaintiffs Robert Bagwell, Teresa Soll, Thomas L. Korkmas, and Madelon Highsmith, (by and through their undersigned counsel), file this their Response to Defendant Dr. Desi Roberts' Rule 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6) Motion to Dismiss Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint, and allege as follows:

I. INTRODUCTION

1. Defendant Bell County Elections Administrator Dr. Desi Roberts (referred to herein as "Dr. Roberts" or "Bell County") has filed a Rule 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6) Motion to Dismiss, claiming that this Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction and that Plaintiffs have failed to state a claim. As described in detail herein, Bell County's motion must fail because it wholly misunderstands and/or misstates both the facts and the legal issues.

A. Standard of Review

2. Whether under 12(b)(1) or (b)(6), the Court should accept Plaintiffs' allegations as true, construe them in the light most favorable to Plaintiffs, and indulge all reasonable inferences in Plaintiffs' favor. See Scheuer v. Rhodes, 416 U.S. 232, 236 (1974), overruled on other grounds, Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800 (1982)]; Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 679 (2009); Collins v. Morgan Stanley Dean Witter, 224 F.3d 496, 498 (5th Cir. 2000). Given this standard of review, Bell County's arguments are particularly extraordinary.

B. Summary of Plaintiffs' Allegations

3. Plaintiffs incorporate all of the factual allegations contained in their First Amended Complaint as though set forth in full herein.

4. For purposes of Defendant Bell County's election administrator, Dr. Desi Roberts,' motion to dismiss, Plaintiffs' material allegations may be generally summarized as follows:

- a) Dr. Roberts, as Bell County's election administrator, has the authority to determine ballot numbering in Bell County. Dkt. 32 ¶¶ 102-104.¹
- b) Bell County, based on authorization from the State Defendants contained in Election Advisory 2019-23², is utilizing unique identifier ballot tracking numbers through voting system software loaded directly onto its electronic pollbooks in its elections (in which Plaintiff Korkmas is a voter);
- c) State Defendants have authorized the use of unique identifier ballot tracking numbers placed on ballots through voting system software, along with numerous other "waivers" of state and federal election law, effectively rendering Texas ballot numbering laws meaningless, and Bell County, although not required to do so, has chosen to adopt the State Defendants' illegal and unauthorized guidance;

- d) Plaintiff Korkmas, as an in-person voter, is forced to utilize a Texas ballot lacking consecutive numbering if he wishes to vote (unlike those who vote by mail), in Bell County;
- e) Plaintiff Korkmas, as an in-person voter, is forced to accept a ballot containing a random, computer-generated, unique identifier ballot tracking number generated by voting system software, in Bell County;
- f) The unique identifier ballot tracking number on Williamson County in-person ballots has been shown to enable more than 60,000 voters to be traced to their exact ballot, i.e., the voter's ballot is no longer secret, and Bell County utilizes the same ballot tracking through voting system software on their electronic pollbooks³;
- g) State Defendants have authorized the use of electronic pollbooks loaded with voting system software and hardware not reviewed, tested, or examined nationally or locally and Bell County has chosen to utilize such pollbooks;
- h) Bell County Plaintiff Korkmas, as an in-person voter, must utilize electronic pollbooks installed with ExpressLink voting system software that was not reviewed by the Election Assistance Commission, not tested by a nationally accredited testing laboratory, and not reviewed by State Defendants' own examiners.
- i) Dr. Roberts, as Bell County election administrator, has consistently operated as though he has authority to provide for ballot numbering in Texas (i.e., by officially waiving existing ballot numbering laws in Bell County and effectively applying other laws providing for computerized ballot numbering through voting system software illegally certified by the State Defendants) and continues to do so in elections occurring since the initiation of this litigation (Secretary Election Advisory 2019-23 Sec. 13.1.b)

5. Accepting these allegations as true, and particularly in light of the evidence demonstrating that they are, in fact, true, Bell County's arguments do not withstand scrutiny.

II. THIS COURT HAS SUBJECT-MATTER JURISDICTION

A. Plaintiffs have standing because they have alleged particularized, redressable grievances and suffered actual injury.

6. As an initial matter, Bell County mischaracterizes Plaintiffs' claims as a general challenge to electronic voting systems. These mischaracterizations are fatal to Bell County's analysis.

7. Unlike the plaintiffs in Andrade v. NAACP of Austin and Eubanks v. Nelson, the main cases on which Bell County relies for its standing argument, Plaintiffs are NOT challenging the use of electronic voting systems. Rather, Plaintiffs are challenging the State Defendants' waiver of state and federal election laws based on improper and erroneous legal grounds, specifically, the illegal and unconstitutional waiver of the consecutively-numbered ballot requirement contained in Texas law and the illegal authorization of randomly generated unique identifying ballot numbers through voting system software that result in the breach of ballot secrecy and, by extension, the County Defendants' decisions to adopt the guidance of the State Defendants. This case is much more specific than the general voting system challenges in Andrade and Eubanks. Were Plaintiffs seeking an injunction against the use of electronic voting systems, Andrade and Eubanks would be relevant to this Court's analysis of the issues. Contrary to Bell County's mischaracterizations, however, Plaintiffs want the Bell County election administrator to cease wrongful interpretations of ballot numbering laws, stop waiving existing ballot numbering laws, stop utilizing ballot numbering methods outside the legislative process, and stop enabling the resulting breach of ballot secrecy, and for Bell County to stop adopting the State Defendants' improper legal interpretations. Andrade, Eubanks, and the other cases on which Bell County relies is simply inapposite.

8. Additionally, the injury Plaintiffs have suffered is more particularized than the injuries in Bell County's cited cases. While it is true that all in-person voters in the Defendant counties have been harmed, such a group is far more specific than simply the public at large. Plaintiff Korkmas is part of a specific class of citizens whose votes and ballots do not enjoy the same legal protections as other voters, namely citizens who vote by mail or who vote in counties that do not utilize computerized random ballot tracking numbers. Plaintiff Korkmas is not required to show that he is the only member of the harmed class – if such were the case, the courthouse doors would be all but locked. Rather, Plaintiff Korkmas alleges, and has demonstrated in the evidence attached to the First Amended Complaint, that he is a member of a distinct and particularized class of in-person voters in counties that utilize illegally certified voting system software and hardware connected to electronic pollbooks. This class does not include all Texas voters, or even necessarily all in-person voters.

9. The Supreme Court found standing when voters brought a constitutional challenge “on their own behalf and on behalf of all qualified voters of their respective counties, and further, on behalf of all voters of the State of Tennessee who are similarly situated.” Baker v. Carr, 369 U.S. 186, 204-05 (1962). Plaintiffs here are an even narrower class than that found to have standing in Baker.

10. Moreover, even a widely shared interest does not, on its own, defeat standing. As the Supreme Court noted in Federal Election Comm'n v. Akins:

[W]here a harm is concrete, though widely shared, the Court has found ‘injury in fact’...Thus the fact that a political forum may be more readily available where an injury is widely shared...does not, by itself, automatically disqualify an interest for Article III purposes. Such an interest, where sufficiently concrete, may count as an ‘injury in fact.’

This conclusion seems particularly obvious where (to use a hypothetical example) ...large numbers of voters suffer interference with voting rights conferred by law.

524 U.S. 11, 24 (1998) (internal citations omitted).

11. Plaintiffs' claims are particularized and withstand a Rule 12(b)(1) challenge.

12. Furthermore, Plaintiffs' First Amended Complaint clearly establishes the actual and/or imminent nature of their injuries. Plaintiffs have been required to utilize ballots with computerized random ballot tracking numbers printed in situ and without consecutively pre-numbered ballots. The secrecy of the Williamson County Plaintiffs' ballots has already been violated, and Bell County utilizes the same ExpressLink software and Activation Card printer equipment and processes that caused the Williamson County breach. There is nothing conjectural or hypothetical about the harm Plaintiffs, including Plaintiff Korkmas, have suffered. The harm is actively occurring and will continue to occur in the future absent this Court's exercise of jurisdiction.

13. Bell County claims that it cannot be liable because it did not administer the May 2024 election described in Plaintiff Korkmas's declaration. This is not entirely accurate. The Contract for Election Services attached to Bell County's motion (Dkt. 45-1) specifically describes "requested services from Dr. Desi Roberts" and "particular services requested from the Bell County Elections Department." It also documents that Bell County owns the election system, the "EVS 6110," which utilizes the ExpressLink software and the Activation Card printer at issue (Dkt. 32 ¶¶ 125-129), and that Defendant Roberts programs the equipment that prints the unique ballot identifier on Mr. Korkmas' ballot, on which he refused to vote in the May election (Dkt. 32-61 ¶ 3). See selected excerpts below:

RECITALS

WHEREAS, each Participating Authority who plans to hold an election on May 04, 2024;

WHEREAS, Bell County owns an electronic voting system, the Election System and Software (ES&S) EVS 6110 voting system, which includes the DS200 precinct scanner, and the ExpressVote ballot marking device and has been duly approved by the Secretary of State pursuant to Texas Election Code Chapter 122 as amended, and is compliant with the accessibility requirements for persons with disabilities set forth by Texas Election Code Section 61.012. The Participating Authorities desire to use Bell County's electronic voting system, to compensate Bell County for such use, and to share in certain other expenses connected with the elections in accordance with the applicable provisions of Chapters 31 and 281 of the Texas Election Code, as amended, and

VI. PREPARATION OF SUPPLIES AND VOTING EQUIPMENT

The Elections Administrator shall arrange with the Participating Authority for all contracted voting equipment, including, but not limited to, Bell County's electronic voting system and voter registration lists. The Elections Administrator will conduct internal testing of the electronic equipment; this test shall not replace the requirement outlined by Chapters 128 and 129 of the Texas Election Code.

The Elections Administrator may agree to conduct equipment programming and receive reimbursement for ordering the election program from Participating Authorities. The Participating Authority shall conduct the official Logic and Accuracy testing outlined in the Texas Election Code.

14. Bell County contends that Plaintiffs' alleged harm is merely conjectural, but this simply flies in the face of the detailed allegations and evidence contained in the First Amended Complaint. It is not a possibility that the secrecy of Plaintiffs' ballots could be violated – it has already happened, including by placing the unique ballot identifier on Mr. Korkmas' ballot in the May election and prior elections (Dkt. 32-61 ¶ 3). It is not a possibility that third parties could have access to Plaintiffs' ballots – Plaintiffs have alleged, and the evidence shows, that the information needed to connect Plaintiffs to their exact ballots in multiple elections is available to multiple third parties, including the public. Bell County utilizes the same election system as Williamson County and is following the same illegal guidance from the State Defendants.

15. Moreover, the State Defendants have publicly admitted to the actual and/or imminent nature of the injury. Defendant Christina Adkins acknowledged to the House Elections Committee Hearing on Oversight of Ballot Secrecy that a “very significant universe” of people have access to the publicly available election information needed to discern how voters voted.⁴ To view Ms. Adkins’ testimony, click on the image below.⁵

16. Unlike the electronic voting machine cases cited by Bell County, here the events of which Plaintiffs complain have already occurred and will recur. Bell County completely ignores this very clear distinction, which defeats their arguments.

17. Finally, while agencies such as the Secretary of State may have discretion in certain areas, those adversely affected by an agency’s decision “generally have standing to complain that the agency based its decision upon an improper legal ground.” Federal Election Comm’n v. Akins, 524 U.S. 11, 25 (1998). Here, Dr. Roberts has misinterpreted his authority to waive state ballot numbering laws, including Tex. Elec. Code Sections 52.062, 51.006, 51.007, 51.008, 51.010, 62.007 and 62.009, as described in the First Amended Complaint. The County Defendants, including Bell County, have chosen to follow the State Defendants’ guidance and waive ballot numbering laws, although not required to do so. Advisory 2019-23 permits the Bell County

Elections Administrator the choice to utilize consecutively numbered ballots in Section 13.1.a as noted in the excerpt below:

- a. Pre-Printed or Hand-Numbered Numbers on Blank Ballot Stock: A jurisdiction can meet this requirement by ordering blank ballot stock with pre-printed numbers or by using a hand-numbering machine to number blank ballot stock.
 - i. The ballots shall be tracked, distributed, and retained just as you would with a traditional pre-printed full ballot in accordance with Sections 51.006, 51.007, 51.008.
 - 1. If you are using pre-numbered ballot stock, then the ballot stock must be placed face down and disarranged so that a voter may select a ballot with a random ballot number to preserve ballot secrecy.

B. Bell County cannot avoid liability under the cloak of sovereign immunity.

18. While Plaintiffs certainly do not dispute that the State Defendants and Bell County have waived, violated, and ignored state law, the gravamen of the First Amended Complaint is that, as a result of these actions, the State Defendants and, subsequently, the County Defendants have deprived Plaintiffs of their rights under the First and Fourteenth Amendments. It happens that Defendants are violating state law while doing so, but Plaintiffs' allegations are not reliant on those state law violations. Rather, Plaintiffs' claims are based on the First and Fourteenth Amendments. As the Fifth Circuit has noted, "It is permissible under Ex Parte Young for a court to "command [] a state official to do nothing more than refrain from violating federal law." Tex. Democratic Party v. Abbott, 978 F.3d 168, 180 (5th Cir. 2020) (quoting Va. Office for Prot. & Advocacy v. Stewart, 563 U.S. 247, 255). Additionally, "insulation [from federal judicial review] is not carried over when state power is used as an instrument for circumventing a federally protected right." Baker v. Carr, 369 U.S. 186, 231 (1962). The Eleventh Amendment does not shield Bell County from liability in this case.

C. None of Plaintiffs' claims invoke the political question doctrine.

19. Next, Bell County would have the Court believe that it lacks jurisdiction because Plaintiffs' allegations fall solely within the purview of the Texas Legislature. Again, Bell County mischaracterizes the nature of this case.

20. It is not the electronic voting systems, in and of themselves, that are the problem, nor are Plaintiffs challenging policy decisions made by the legislative branch as it relates to the use of electronic voting systems in the conduct of Texas elections. To the contrary, Plaintiffs believe the other branches of government should honor the legislature's policy choices. What Bell County overlooks is the fact that the Texas legislature has NOT made a policy choice to utilize random computerized ballot tracking numbers through voting system software, which would have been the legislature's prerogative to do. Bell County fails to recognize that both the Texas House and the Texas Senate rejected that exact policy change in both 2021 and 2023. Dkt. 32, paragraph 69.⁶ Rather, the State Defendants and Bell County, based on improper legal grounds, have all made an unauthorized policy choice to permit such ballot tracking numbers instead of the consecutive numbers the legislature DID make the policy choice to authorize. For their part, County Defendants have wrongfully waived ballot numbering laws and erroneously relied on and acted upon the State Defendants' unauthorized policy choice.

21. In other words, the State Defendants and Bell County have usurped the role of the legislature while claiming that Plaintiffs have no right to challenge such a usurpation (one that directly harms Plaintiffs) because the policy decisions the State Defendants and Bell County made were the role of the legislature. The circularity of such an argument defies logic. While Bell County may indeed “[rely] upon policy directives promulgated by the Secretary of State,” Bell County has chosen to do so, where other counties such as Hood, Dallas, Ellis, and Jefferson, have not. Dkt. 32 ¶¶ 58, 100, 152, 154, Bell County cannot hide behind the wrongdoing of the State Defendants to avoid liability for its own unconstitutional and illegal choices and actions.

III. PLAINTIFFS HAVE STATED CLAIMS THAT WITHSTAND A RULE 12(B)(6) CHALLENGE

A. Plaintiffs have alleged procedural and substantive due process claims.

22. For the reasons already described in detail above, Plaintiffs have properly stated a procedural due process claim against Bell County. By usurping the give and take of both the Senate and House legislative processes of publicly introducing bills, referrals to committees, public committee meetings, public and expert testimony in committee hearings, floor actions, return to the originating committee, conference committee and governor’s action⁷, the State Defendants and Bell County have illegally and without accountability waived, violated, and ignored ballot numbering laws that were passed through the legislative process of public input, debate, and scrutiny. Dkt. 32 ¶ 25, 86, 94. Although not required to, as noted supra, Bell County has chosen to adopt the State Defendants’ unauthorized policy choices.

23. Additionally, the State Defendants and Bell County have violated due process by illegally utilizing ballot numbering software and hardware, ExpressLink and the Activation card printer, that:

- a) were not certified by the Election Assistance Commission, in violation of Tex. Elec. Code Sec. 122.001(a)3. Dkt. 32 ¶ 129.i and iv.

⁷ See “The Legislature Process in Texas” published by the Texas Legislative Council in 2022 at <https://tlc.texas.gov/docs/legref/legislativeprocess.pdf>. This document lays out the process for Senate bills and House bills. The Texas legislative process is governed by the Texas Constitution and applicable statutes and by the rules of procedure of the Senate and House of Representatives that are adopted at the beginning of a regular session.

- b) were not reviewed by the State’s own examiners, in violation of Tex. Elec. Code 122.036. Dkt. 32 ¶¶ 127, 129.iii and iv,
- c) do not preserve the secrecy of the ballot, in violation of Tex. Elec. Code Sec. 122.001(a)1. Dkt. 32 ¶ 129.iv.
- d) do not prohibit the electronic pollbooks from connecting to voting system software and hardware components, in violation of the Texas Technical matrix for Electronic Pollbooks Section 35. Dkt. 32 ¶ 134.

24. Bell County had a choice in selecting its ballot numbering system, and it chose illegally certified ballot numbering software and hardware that places a unique ballot identifier on in-person voters’ ballots.

25. The harms suffered by Plaintiffs are a direct result of Defendant Roberts’ abject procedural due process failures. The Fifth Circuit has long recognized that “the due process clause of the fourteenth amendment to the United States Constitution protects against the disenfranchisement of a state electorate in violation of state election law.” Duncan v. Poynthress, 657 F.2d 691, 693 (5th Cir. 1981). Indeed, [Federal courts have properly intervened when] the attack was, broadly, upon the fairness of the official terms and procedures under which the election was conducted. The federal courts were not asked to count and validate ballots and enter into the details of the administration of the election. Rather they were confronted with an officially-sponsored election procedure which, in its basic aspect, was flawed. Due process...is implicated in such a situation...In cases falling within such confines, we think that a federal judge need not be timid, but may and should do what common sense and justice require.

Id. at 703 (quoting Griffin v. Burns, 570 F.2d 1065, 1077-78 (1st Cir. 1978)).

26. Like the plaintiffs in Duncan, Plaintiffs “ask for the election itself, as required by state law.” Id. Plaintiffs have alleged procedural due process claims sufficient to withstand the Defendants’ Rule 12(b)(1) challenge.

27. Similarly, Plaintiffs have alleged a substantive due process claim. While Bell County claims that Mr. Korkmas chose to not vote in the May election because “of personal reasons,” that is a complete mischaracterization. Mr. Korkmas’ Declaration clearly states that once he verified his May ballot was earmarked with a unique identifier, AAR8851, he canceled his ballot and chose not to vote because of Bell County’s illegal actions.

28. There has been nothing but public outrage in response to the evidence and allegations in this lawsuit and to other ballot secrecy breaches in Texas.⁸ The House⁹ and Senate¹⁰ of the Texas Legislature both called emergency hearings to discuss breaches of ballot secrecy and the “algorithm” that was discovered by Dr. Pressley.

29. In response to the very public and recent legislative pressure, which evidences the shock to the collective conscience, on June 24, 2024, the Secretary issued Election Advisory 2024-21, titled “Updated Ballot Numbering Requirements.” This new Advisory purports “to address updated requirements relating to the certification of electronic pollbook systems under Texas Election Code 31.014 and to the use of software methods of ballot numbering under Election Code 52.075.” Dkt. 46, p. 2 ¶ 3 and Dkt. 46-1, Appendix 4, on p. 17. Advisory 2024-21 from Dkt. 46-1 is included herein as Exhibit 2.

30. The Secretary’s new Advisory 2024-21 directs counties using electronic pollbooks that currently place a unique identifying number on each in-person voter’s ballot (ES&S counties using the ExpressLink Software on their pollbooks), including Bell County, that they “are now required to use ballot numbering methods that do not involve the use of the electronic pollbook system.” To date, Bell County has not officially announced their intentions moving forward, and their Motion does not reference any plans for the November 2024 or future elections. While Advisory 2024-21 is insufficient as a remedy, its existence highlights both the magnitude of the public outrage regarding these ballot secrecy breaches and issues and the Defendants’ direct role in both causing and mitigating them. Until addressed by the Court, Bell County can choose to ignore the Secretary’s short-term guidance.

C. Plaintiffs have stated equal protection claims against the Defendants.

31. Texas law creates two classes of voter – those who vote by-mail and those who vote in-person at the polls. Dkt. 32 ¶ 24. Under the U.S. Constitution’s one-person, one-vote guarantee of equal protection, both of these voter classes in Texas are guaranteed equal protection of their ballot and to vote effectively and free from intimidation. State laws ensuring equal application of consecutive ballot numbering and other mandates guaranteeing a secret ballot are all laws that advance a state's "compelling interests in preventing voter intimidation and election fraud" as noted in Burson v. Freeman 504 U.S. 191, 191-192 (1992) (holding that restricted zones around polling places serve to protect ballot secrecy by protecting the right to vote freely and effectively). "The right to vote is protected in more than the initial allocation of the franchise. Equal protection applies as well to the manner of its exercise. Having once granted the right to vote on equal terms, the State may not, by later arbitrary and disparate treatment, value one person's vote over that of another." Bush v. Gore, 531 U.S. 98, 104-05 (2000). In cases such as this one, "the crucial consideration is the right of each qualified voter to participate on an equal footing in the election process." Hadley v. Junior College District, 397 U.S. 50, 55 (1970).

32. Contrary to Bell County's contention, Plaintiffs have alleged substantial differential treatment between voters who cast ballots by mail and voters who cast ballots in person. Dkt. 46 p. 18. Plaintiffs, as in-person voters, do not receive a consecutively-numbered ballot, in violation of Texas law, and are required to utilize ballots with computerized unique identifiers placed on them by electronic pollbooks, resulting in the breach of ballot secrecy. This specifically includes Plaintiff Korkmas in Bell County. Dkt. 32 ¶¶ 37-39, 86, 91, 112, 123, 163. Those who vote by mail receive a legally compliant ballot on which to cast their votes and are not subject to breach of secrecy. It is hard to envision how the treatment of these two classes of voters could be more disparate.

33. The Bell County Elections Administrator cannot override the Texas Constitution, particularly where it directs authority (in the form of a command) only to the Legislature to provide for ballot numbering, nor can an elections administrator simply override the U.S. Constitution's guarantees of equal protection for ballot secrecy and against ballot fraud for all its voters regardless of how they cast their ballots, whether in-person or by-mail. Dkt. 32 ¶¶ 101, 104. Casting a ballot protected from disclosure and fraud is the right of all Texas voters, not just those who cast ballots by mail, and any discrimination in this regard undermines the vote. “Other rights, even the most basic, are illusory if the right to vote is undermined. Our Constitution leaves no room for classification of people in a way that unnecessarily abridges this right.” Wesberry v. Sanders 376 U.S. 1, 17 (1964); see also Reynolds v. Sims, 377 U.S. 533, 562 (1964). Dkt. 32 ¶ 143.

D. Plaintiffs have stated a First Amendment claim against Defendants.

34. Finally, and for the same reasons stated above, Plaintiffs have clearly stated a valid First Amendment claim against Defendant Roberts. Defendant Roberts’ actions, as described herein, undermine, infringe upon, and abridge Plaintiff Korkmas’ right to vote freely, resulting in voter suppression, vote dilution, disenfranchisement, and debasement in violation of the First Amendment of the United States Constitution. Dkt. 32 ¶ 35 and Korkmas Declaration 32-61 ¶ 3-5.

35. The realistic danger is that Defendant Roberts’ actions have caused voter intimidation and the chilling and undermining of the free exercise of Plaintiff Korkmas’ votes, resulting in disenfranchisement and violating Plaintiff Korkmas’ First Amendment rights. These allegations are detailed extensively in Plaintiffs’ Amended Complaint (Dkt. 32 ¶161) and in each Plaintiff’s Declaration (Pressley 32-54 pp. 3-5, Bagwell 32-59 ¶¶ 6-7, Korkmas 32-61 ¶ 3, Highsmith 32-62 ¶ 4, Soll 32-60 ¶¶ 5-8). The harms, fears, and dangers detailed by each Plaintiff are real, individual, and personal in nature, and are not unexpected. Indeed, the Supreme Court has noted that “the failure of the law to secure secrecy open[s] the door to bribery and intimidation.” Burson at 201. A “secret ballot” is a venerable part of the American tradition. Burson at 124 (Justice Scalia concurring).

IV. THIS CASE PRESENTS A JUSTICIABLE CONTROVERSY

36. State Defendants' new Election Advisory 2024-21 helpfully illustrates the justiciable controversy present in this case.

37. State Defendants actually believe they have authority over ballot numbering methods in Texas and can usurp the appropriate legislative process, resulting in the disenfranchisement of in-person voters. Plaintiffs' First Amended Complaint (Dkt. 32) outlines the illegal and constitutional errors surrounding the State Defendants' faulty interpretations and the dangerous consequences that have resulted.¹¹

38. The Fifth Circuit has already recognized the limited authority Section 52.075 grants to State Defendants, noting that "the Secretary has discretion to alter the...content of electronic ballots, but that discretion is cabined to encoding ballots (prepared by local officials) for compatibility with an electronic voting system." Texas Alliance for Retired Americans v. Scott, 28 F.4th 669, 673 (5th Cir. 2022). Dkt. 32 ¶ 99. State Defendants show no sign of heeding such limitation, and Bell County is blindly following their guidance.

39. Additionally, even if Advisory 2024-21 were a legal and effective remedy (which Plaintiffs do not concede¹²), the State Defendants, based on their misunderstanding of the authority granted to them, can easily rescind Advisory 2024-21 or promulgate a new ballot numbering method completely outside legislative processes and devoid of oversight.

¹² The advisory is wholly insufficient because, among other things, it does not address counties, including Llano, that use the Hart InterCivic computerized ballot number tracking system through voting system software. Dkt. 32 ¶ 40, 52-56, 86.

40. Further, County Defendants, including Bell County, can choose to implement guidance and processes promulgated by the State Defendants, although clearly erroneous and illegal.

V. CONCLUSION

41. The First and Fourteenth Amendment violations suffered by Plaintiffs as the result of Defendants' actions is one of the most epic and unprecedented failures of a state agency and county election administrators. State Defendants' dictatorial decisions and actions to waive and redefine ballot numbering laws in Texas and illegally certify electronic pollbooks to place unique identifier numbers on in-person ballots, and County Defendants' reliance on same, has resulted in the actual breach of secrecy of not only Plaintiffs' ballots but more than 60,000 voters' ballots, something that has never been reported in our county's history.

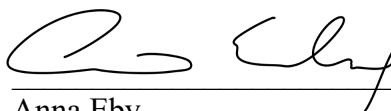

42. This case raises fundamental questions regarding the absence of checks and balances for the State Defendants' decisions and actions and their threat to the legislature by intruding on the core and mandatory state constitutional function the legislature has to provide for ballot numbering laws in Texas.¹³ Equally concerning are the State and Bell County Defendants' failures of accountability to the people to ensure a secret ballot to prevent voter intimidation and disenfranchisement, as well as the County Defendants' unquestioning adoption of the State Defendants' illegal, erroneous, and unauthorized guidance. These issues implicate Plaintiffs' rights to equal protection and due process and their right to cast a secret ballot free from fear, intimidation, retaliation, and disenfranchisement. Through this case, Plaintiffs are requesting that the Court provide relief because their constitutional rights and those of others have been violated on such a massive scale.

PRAYER

For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court deny Defendant Dr. Desi Roberts' Rule 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6) Motion to Dismiss Plaintiff's Amended Complaint and grant to Plaintiffs all such other and further relief to which they may be entitled.

Respectfully submitted:
